U.S. Retirement & Benefits Partners Expands Financial Wellness Program

Iselin, NJ, January 10, 2017 – U.S. Retirement & Benefits Partners (USRBP) announced today the enhancement of their Financial Wellness Program, which promotes the importance of providing unbiased educational information to their clients and the greater public.

USRBP's integrated program incorporates three components. 1) There is self-help information provided via a Financial Wellness website that includes articles, videos and calculators. 2) A package of educational workshops is available to organizations, which can customize a curriculum specific to its needs and are delivered by experienced and knowledgeable Advisors. 3) There is a suite of advanced online analytical tools, including financial planning modules and calculators, for Advisors to work with clients to deliver alternatives and solutions to meet their current and future needs.

Each of these resources provide educational information on a range of financial and insurance topics with the purpose of helping individuals learn how they can achieve their financial wellness goals, and they are provided at no cost.

“The vanguard of the Financial Wellness Program is the self-help website. This site can be accessed through any of USRBP's portals or can be provided to any employer to include in the Human Resources or other section of their website. All of the content is purely educational and designed to help our clients,” said Mark Skinner, President and CEO of U.S. Retirement & Benefits Partners.
