U.S. Retirement Partners Enhances Financial Literacy Offering
Adds Significant New Content to Retirement Resource Center Portal

Iselin, NJ, April 1, 2013 – U.S. Retirement Partners (USRP) announced today that it has added new content to its Retirement Resource Center, a website designed to provide a variety of educational materials to help employers and their employees learn more about retirement savings options, financial planning, and various types of insurance, among other topics.

Introduced last year, this non-branded site is a component of USRP’s Financial Literacy Program and has become a valuable reference tool for employer and employee clients, as well as USRP Advisors. A link to this site can be found on the USRP public website, on regional Partner Firm websites, and is also available as a free service for employers to add to their websites.

New content added includes an update on the recent tax law changes, information about college financial aid, Medigap insurance, wills and trusts, and retirement planning. Relevant and time-sensitive content is updated as necessary.

“We are delighted to add to the breadth and depth of our Retirement Resource Center. The microsite has been positively received by the public,” said Mark M. Skinner, President and CEO of USRP. He continued, “Our goal is to constantly update and improve it, as new material becomes available.”
